One Dollar a Year. Change in Advance.
SPENCER COOPER, P. Editor.

HAZEL GREEN, KY.
WEDNESDAY, MARCH 16, 1887

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

We are authorized to announce Hon. R. M. French, of East, Morgan county, as a candidate for the State Senate from this the Thirty-fourth District, subject to action of the Democratic party.

Remember that every time you answer a catch-penny advertisement, the sum spent for the paper in which you saw the advertisement and the pinch-back jewelry and sundial watches, would help just that much towards supporting your home paper; you should bear in mind, also, that THE HERALD is worth far more substantial aid. It is working to secure good prices for stock and produce, and at the same time cheapen groceries, clothing, medicines, &c. It can and will do all these things, if each man will assist it. One dollar is not much for each one to pay, but in the aggregate the sum thus realized would enable us to do great good for this country.

Rev. Bruce Trimble, formerly of this place, but now of Orange, California, writes of that country, and says the climate is delightful. He ought to have invested his money in his native hills and helped the development that is soon to come. He may yet find, notwithstanding the mildness of that climate, that it was "a cold day" when he purchased property out there instead of trying to develop the hills up on which he was wont to feed his father's flocks. Bye-and-bye this country will be developed and the wool will follow in wealth. Then will our young friend realize "what might have been," and regret that he did not remain on his native head and feed his Master's sheep.

The death of Hon. Joseph Gardner has cast a gloom of sadness over this part of the State which time alone can dispel. He was an embodiment of all elements of the model man—a fond husband, affectionate father, firm friend and consistent christian. Though his early life was outside the pale of the church, he was ever a moral man, who responded to all appeals for charity with a liberal hand. A year ago he united with the Presbyterian Church, and was in full fellowship when he died.

At Birmingham, Ala., eggs are selling at 40 cents a dozen, sweet milk 50 cents a gallon, butter 50 cents a pound, but Irish potatoes 25 cents a bushel, and the same prices can be obtained by the farmers of this section for all they produce, if they will only assist their home paper, and help in bringing moneyed men here to develop our resources.

As a people we are too poor to develop the great wealth that abounds, but there is not a man, or scarcely one in the mountains, who can not spare one dollar to support his home paper, that the paper may be enabled to develop it, by bringing capitalists among us. Every farmer in the mountains should subscribe for his home paper.

Harris and Hill seems to be the ticket most acceptable to the Democrats of this section just now, and Buckner Berry haven't much of a show. The Republicans pin their faith to Col. W. O. Bradley for Governor, but do not seem to have united upon his lieutenant.

The Clark County Democrat has changed hands, but the property is still possessed in the family. Mr. D. C. Lisle retires from the tripod, and his brother, Mr. M. C. Lisle will mount it. We wish the new editor success in his venture.

Lexington and Winchester have joined hands in their determination to secure the Kentucky Union railroad. It will doubtless be soon constructed.

through those towns, and take the route suggested in these columns a few weeks ago.

Renew your subscription to THE HERALD today, and get your neighbor to take it, also. Let us all pull together. No matter in what part of the mountains you may live, you will be rewarded for your outlay.

Breathes there a man with soul so dead, who never to himself hath said, I'll pay to THE HERALD before I go to bed.

CALIFORNIA'S CLIME.

A LAND WHERE SNOW IS PERPETUAL AND FLOWERS NEVER PINE.

Rev. Bruce Trimble, a Native of Hazel Green, Describes His New Home on the Pacific Slope.

ORANGE, CAL. Feb. 23, 1887.
DEAR EDITOR: Inasmuch as my former letters have not appeared in your columns, I now ask that you give me a column, you a half, or two lines, whichever I tell of some things in a distant West. It is not my intention to give "news," but to tell of some things in fact, for my own pleasure, to give a ready look for all—from Kentucky. Now, Editor, don't think that I am boasting or discouraged with my prospects, physical, financial, or social. By the by, the California is thought to be a land flowing with milk and honey, where flowers perpetually bloom and the sweet voiced birds never cease their songs. With a slight change, I would modestly say: "I am pleased with my new home. My health is good, so is my appetite, for I have plenty of patients by the Louisville Medical better—handsome perhaps. My present fighting weight is about 140 lbs. I could be a good deal more, but I would be a man. Like most, or many Eastern people who come to the State, I have invested in real estate. Near Pomona I bought twenty acres unimproved, and in Pomona five residence lots, also four in Santa Ana, three miles from Orange. For the information of friends in general and especially in particular, will say that these residence lots are not for my own occupancy. An only exception. The legal voters of Kentucky to whom I would enjoy writing that were few for such a pleasure. Through my own opportunity is given to these few. California must not be so praised that all residents of Mt. Sterling will desire to come here, such embracing depositions must not be allowed.

Orange is a small town near the Santa Ana river, one mile from the depot of the Southern Pacific, and thirty-two miles from Los Angeles, the rapidly growing city of more than 40,000. The population of the city is about 2,000. The town has five churches, an attractive public school building recently erected at a cost of $10,000, and a weekly newspaper, several stores of general merchandise, a public reading room, &c. and is surrounded by a fruit-growing district. Nearby, in Anaheim, is a large village. The Muscat (rhine) grape, &c. and lemon and orange are the principal fruits in this valley. During the past two years scale-bugs have greatly damaged the orange groves. The fruit men hope to discover a deadly remedy for the pest. The climate is very pleasant. Southern California has many attractive and profitable enterprises without the cold of the north. There are many white oaks in the groves in the county and in this neighborhood, some of which yield as much as $500 per acre annually. Certain localities are adapted to certain kinds of fruit. Geraniums, roses of rare fragrance and beauty, call lilies, and other flowers grow in yards all winter. On the whole, while walking in the country I counted, without entering the yard, more than forty call lilies. It was a beautiful sight to see, unattended to the varieties of winter. At another place I saw a geranium which had sent its branches high among the limbs of a pine, and had no way for measuring its length. The gentleman said it was between twenty-five and thirty feet high. There were but few flowers on it. In Mt. Sterling there have been, in snow, ice, and sharp winds since I left. There were no white daisies, or any other flowers, as you write and draw your overcoat closely around you. I have been there. Here is a weather report from Orange. On the thermometer fell to 28° on one occasion, rose to 32° on the next, but was usually between 40° and 60° early in the morning, and rose rapidly, and reached 80° One heavy rain at intervals during these days has fallen this winter, two showers before this. At Modesto, five miles near the foot hills, the cold has not been so intense? The fields and hills will be covered with snow, flowers, and woods. The farmers in this country cannot depend upon the rain fall. Irrigation is always necessary for oranges and lemons, and as a rule for other fruits, and is an important item in this country.

Through Dr. Tibbs you have heard of "Old Baldy" surrounding mountains. It is more than 10,000 feet high. Heavy snow covers its top and far down the sides. The climate is very pleasant. This mountain which usually appears to be not more than three or four miles distant, sometimes lies, but which is on air-line, between fifty-five and seventy. The description is remarkable. Account for it as you may. Perhaps you will explain by saying: Bruce, it is so because you are misguided.

On January 31 I went to visit Dr. Tibbs, and stayed four days. This was my first real visit. A letter from him yesterday reports his health as usual. He thinks Mr. Patterson has improved some since I was there. Four Kentucky families at Pomona, and still they come. Who next? Remember, Mr. Editor, in return for these lines, I ask that you, at my next article, send me my many friends, express my warm wishes for their success, and answer the thousand and one questions which would be asked if I were in Mt. Sterling, concerning the life of a like California—when and why I came, and I am going back to the land of sunshine, etc. etc. My next letter will be something else—Sentinel-Down.

Happiness depends very much on the condition of the liver and kidneys. The slow flow of bile is constantly stored in cases where it is taken to overcome that condition. It is usually, with biliousness and constipation, accompanied by nervousness and abundant secretion, is results which promptly and invariably attend the use of Dr. J. H. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. It is a sure and safe protective against malaria, and a first rate

THE NEWS.
KENTUCKY KNOWLEDGE.

—Mrs. Jane Beck, wife of U. S. Senator Jas. B. Beck, died in Washington City on the 11th inst., of inflammation of the stomach and bowels. She was a native of Virginia and aged about sixty-one years. Her maiden name was Thompson, and she was one of the nearest living relatives of George Washington. She was also a half-sister of Col. Dick Clark of Winchester.

—Hon. James H. Mallory has been nominated by the Democrats of Lexington for re-election as Representative to the Kentucky Legislature. He has succeeded himself two or three times before, and has always been an ardent worker for that city's interest. He is 57 years of age, and has been a member of the Fayette county over two competitors.

—The State College at Lexington will receive $15,000 per annum under the provisions of the bill recently passed by Congress establishing experimental stations at all the agricultural colleges of the United States. Prof. Patterson thinks it will be of great benefit to the school.

—Christian county has a fund of $80,000 subscribed to build turnpikes. John Latham, Jr., the banker of New York, and a native of Christian, headed the list with $50,000.

—A Hardin county man paid $25 rent for three acres of tobacco ground. He received $5,000, and after expenses he marketed a net balance of $1,000.

—A fire at Danville, on the 8th, destroyed the grain elevator and mill belonging to Kott & Proctor. Loss about $35,000; insured for $25,000.

—Col. A. W. Hamilton, of Montgomery, some time ago announced as a candidate for Lieutenant Governor, where he would be a sinecure.

—Judge Charles Lytle is a candidate for the State Senate from the 30th Senatorial district, which includes Carlisle, Cynthiana, &c.

—Sixty-four young physicians have been promulgated to a world of nursing patients by the Louisville Medical College.

—The middle of December last Nicholasville has lost $100,000 by fire; many of them the work of incendiaries.

—Gov. Knott appointed April 1st as "Arbor Day," and requests everybody to plant a tree that day.

—W. S. McChesney, son, has been appointed postmaster at Lexington, vice H. K. Milward, removed.

—The Knights of Labor at Prestonsville, Carroll county, elected their full ticket for town officers.

—The legal voters of Louisville will vote on the local option question at the August election.

—H. L. Cooper is a candidate for the Legislature from Marion county.

GENERAL AND FOREIGN GOSSIP.
Oil in paying quantities has been discovered at Van's Station, Ala.

In the police court at Cincinnati a negro girl was fined $500 for contempt of court.

A company is boring for oil and gas at Gallopia, Ohio, and have gone down 1600 feet. The indications are good.

The Baltimore and Ohio railroad has passed into the hands of Alfred Bull, of New York, who now controls 15,000 miles of track.

Atlanta, Ga., a short time since closed the saloons, and now all the gambling shops have been shut up. That city is working big reforms.

Indians and half-breeds of Rollette county, Ind., refused to pay their taxes, and the sheriff seized their stock. The Indians were reinforced, and captured the sheriff and his men.

Investigation, and will furnish troops to support the Indians (400 armed) and make them pay up.

DEATH OF HON. JOE GARDNER.
He Delivers a Speech at Frankfort, Announces His Candidacy for Lieutenant Governor, and Dies of Apoplexy.

A Frankfort special to the Louisville Courier-Journal, March 7th, says: Hon. Joseph H. Gardner, of Saylesville, Madison county, died suddenly at half-past six this evening of apoplexy. He came here last evening from Georgia, where he had been to sell a lot of horses. In this business he has engaged for years, and this afternoon at the court house, made an address to the people of the county, announcing his candidacy for Lieutenant Governor. He went to his room at the residence of his uncle, Mr. H. P. Williams, immediately afterward, and complained of feeling unwell. He laid down on the bed, and in a few moments he said that his mind was greatly confused, and that he felt a dizziness in the head. Physicians were summoned and applied batteries, but apoplexy had already accomplished its fatal work, and death speedily closed his life.

Mr. Gardner was a handsome gentleman, of fifty-two years of age; of splendid physique, agreeable in manners, and though modest and unassuming, of such grace and cultivation as made him an object of high regard by all who met him. He began life at the old Gardner homestead at the Burning Springs, on the headwaters of the Licking River, which was a famous resort for politicians in the earlier days of the Commonwealth. In his younger days he carried on the business of merchandising, and his time has been occupied with his family and live stock. In 1865 he was elected to the Legislature and in 1868-73 again in 1876-79 represented his district in the State Senate. He has been a candidate for Congress at various times before the convention, and in more instances than one has been known to yield his claims to insure harmony and unity in the Democratic party.

which he has always been an earnest and able partisan. By diligent and intelligent management of a small inheritance he has accumulated a competency in ready money and large and valuable tracts of land in Madison and other counties of Eastern Kentucky.

His body will be shipped tomorrow to his home, where his wife, children and grand-children are now assembled, and the youngness of life, unconscious of his death, and beyond the reach of means to counter the intelligence.

HAZEL GREEN ACADEMY.

The directors of the above school take pleasure in announcing to the public that highly satisfactory arrangements have been made for the positive opening of the school on Monday, January 23, 1887. Three competent teachers have been employed whose qualifications are unassailable and their services secured for a term of years. In making this announcement we feel justified in asserting that the school will be an institution which will reflect an honor on the State and unparagoned even by the more pretentious similar institutions of the large cities. Located in a favorable geographical section, healthy, free from vicissitudes of climate, and with a strict night looking to the protection, comfort and mental training of the students, parents can rely upon their children being safe with under the care of the faculty and trustees. The attention of young men and ladies who expect to teach is specially called to the advantages to be gained in this school at a nominal cost.

For terms of tuition and further information apply to T. O. Miss Hazel Green, W. O. Miss Hazel Green, and Prof. J. W. McGarvey, Lexington, Ky.
